Select Poetry.

KICK HIM DOWN.

If, in the treacherous paths of life,
Thy brother's foot should slip,
And words of folly, hate or strife,
Fall from his thoughtless lip;
Or if perchance, as many say,
Dame Fortune she should frown
And blight his prospects, fair as day,
The cry is—Kick him down!

Whate'er his state in life has been—
If honest, worthy, wise;
Or, if the wealthy day has seen,
Of course you'll shut your eyes.
If poverty, with brazen chain,
Should bring him to the ground,
He, struggling 'tempts to rise again,
The cry is—Kick him down!

If solitude and penitence,
For errors he his lot,
And conscience brings remembrances
Of follies once forgot;
If hope, again with buoyant wing,
Fling joy and peace around,
A thousand accusations bring,
And try to—Kick him down!

If on his well-meant efforts rest
The helpless child for life,
And near his doubting, beating breast
There hangs an anxious wife;
If on the altar of his care
Their hopes and joys are bound,
What retribution waits your share,
Who aid to—Kick him down!

If good intent the man should guide,
Though falling in a part,
Discourage not—the world is wide.—
There's good in every heart.
Let sympathy the soul inspire,
Where'er misfortune's found,
And man, still struggling admire,
And never—Kick him down!

Select Miscellany.

THE CRACK IN THE DOOR.

The prettiest house, the prettiest garden, the best servants, and the largest bank account in X——, belong to Mrs. Mehitable Armstrong, widow. Some people also declared that she was the prettiest woman in X——, but these were not the other women. They said that she had red hair and was too fat, and what the gentlemen saw to admire in her they couldn't guess, etc., etc.: but say it as often as they might, every man in the place was Hetty Armstrong's devoted servant, friend and admirer, and a dozen of them her lovers also. A bright, dashing, warm hearted woman she was; as merry as though she had never knew a care. Not that she had forgotten the lover of her youth—the gallant, black eyed sea captain whose ship had gone down in mid-ocean five years before, and whose pictured face lay near her heart night and day, sleeping or waking—but she was too full of life and hope to live entirely in the past, and loved neither hours of melancholy musing nor what women call "a good cry." To forget all sorrow, if she could, and be as happy as she might, were the two grand rules of her life; and, therefore, people who did not know Hetty Armstrong thought her heartless, and made a great mistake.

They called her a flirt, too, and that was not true, either. She only flirted with those who began the game first, and that a woman has a right to do. At X——, if a gentleman called twice upon a lady his attentions were reported to be "very peculiar;" if he "saw her home from meeting," rumor declared that they were "engaged;" and if he spent an evening with her, they were "to be married next week" for a certainty; but Hetty Armstrong was somehow not included in the general rule. She had determined to do as she chose. She went everywhere with unmarried gentlemen of her set. She was friendly when she chose to be, and flirted when she liked. After settling gossip afloat a dozen times, she gained her point, and people let her alone. It was Hetty Armstrong's way—that was all—and no indication of matrimonial affections. For years gentlemen had haunted her parlors, escorted her hither and thither, sung with her, danced with her, confided in her, and adored her, and village gossip had married her, until suddenly a stranger made his debut at X——, and set tongues a going beyond even Hetty Armstrong's power of silencing.

He was tall, he was handsome, he was comparatively young. He had just that touch of the exquisite about him which is so charming when "a man's a man for a' that;" faultless in toilet, faultless in manner, educated, accomplished, altogether charming—he openly flung himself at Hetty Armstrong's feet, and declared himself her admirer. Of course, we do not mean to say that he ruined the knees of his faultless habiliments by going down upon them, or in any other way conducted himself as did the knights of old when heart-smitten; but after the manner of the nineteenth century, he declared his intentions quite openly.

He sang to and at the lady. He haunted her parlors like a well-dressed ghost. He wrote poetry for the X—— "Luminary," addressed to H. A., and signed C. R.

He breathed deep sighs, and gave soft glances, and said things that might have double meanings. And this, not for a week nor for a month, but for a year, at the end of which time Hetty Armstrong began to understand that she was expected by everybody to accept Charles Rokewood when he offered her his heart and hand. Meanwhile, the soft eyes and the sweet voice, the delicate attention and the winning songs of her admirer were not without their effect upon Hetty Armstrong's heart.

It began to be conscious of certain tremors and flutterings in his presence. Her cheeks flushed as they had in her girlhood. Her dreams were not the sober, practical dreams which nature at five-and-twenty should alone indulge in, and as the days rolled on, she felt more conscious that the "yes" which was expected of her would be uttered.

She tried to be prudent and judge the man carefully. The result was that she declared him to be "an angel." At last Hetty Armstong fairly let go of the rudder of self-will to which she clung so long, and allowed herself to drift down the tide of circumstances which were to lead her into the arms of Charles Rokewood. She let her hand linger on his arm as he bid her good bye. She smiled up into his eyes as women only smile into eyes they love. She felt that life would be happier with such a bosom to repose upon, and began to wonder whether it really would be necessary for a widow to be married in pearl color when white was so becoming to her complexion. So matters stood when Christmas drew near, and with it Hetty Armstrong's regular Christmas-eve party.

All X——, or nearly all, would be there, even the Rev. Luther Paragon, who amiably forgot to say that he disapproved of dancing and charades, when Mrs. Armstrong declared that she "adored them." It was always the merriest party of the season at X——, and this time Mrs. Armstrong decided that she would outdo herself. There was a dash more of coquetry in her dress; a dash of extravagance in the supper, a glitter of rare china, and a perfume of rare flowers in the parlor—just as they say wine warms up the wits and fancy does love at times. All things would be brighter, fresher, more sparkling just now, thought, or rather vaguely felt, the woman who had just begun to know her heart aright, and thought she knew another's.

She stood in her rich dress of silk and lace, flowers in her hair and on her bosom before her guests arrived, before the grate fire in her parlor, when some one touched her on the shoulder, and, turning, she saw Charles Rokewood.

Her face was a little paler, her eyes more earnest in their look than usual, and a sort of happy tremor came upon her as she guessed why he had come so early.

"I knew I should find you alone," he said, "and I have something to say to you—something—"

There she stopped him. "Don't say it now," she pleaded. "I have an evening before me which calls for all my calmness. If it is anything agitating, I—I—I must ask you to wait. After those guests of mine are gone—or to-morrow—I will hear you; not now."

Charles Rokewood bowed "Your will shall be my law," he said, and took her hand and kissed it. She let him do it, blushing the while, not daring now to look at him.

All the evening, after the other guests were there, her thoughts wandered back to the moment. She knew what he would say, and she could answer only in one way, only one—she liked him so well.

"And I have felt so sure I never could be any one again," thought Hetty Armstrong. "There is fate in it."

But she danced and sang and talked as usual, and no one guessed that she was dreaming—not even Mr. Rokewood, who with a chosen friend had slipped away from the parlors, and was smoking and talking in the dressing room. He was a little out of sorts. Hetty, conscious of her duties as hostess, insisted on being public property, and could not be allured into a tete a tete; and the women who were ready to be talked to he did not care about. Engaged men are generally known by their bearish conduct to ladies generally. Rokewood, although not engaged, believed himself far enough upon the road to forget his old suavity, and fell back upon cigars and masculine friends, whenever his lady-love could not be whispered to or gazed at. Consequently damsels who thought Rokewood charming were wondering what could have become of him, when Biddy, the waiter-ess, mysteriously beckoned her mistress into the hall, and in awful whisper said, "more spoons were needed for the crame."

"Of course there must be," said Mrs. Armstrong. "Where was my head to forget it? I'll get poor Aunt Martha's set from the up-staris china closet. Wait on the stairs until I come to you."

And away ran Mrs. Armstrong to the second floor, where she plunged into a long, old-fashioned closet, and brought forth a legacy of silver ware, left her years before by a maiden aunt. Counting the spoons over a murmur of voices from the next room fell upon her ear. At the same moment she caught the perfume of a cigar. She knew that Charles Rokewood had the richest voice and smoked the best cigars of any man of his set.

"You dear old fellow," she whispered to herself, "I have been cross to you to-night, but some day I'll be as kind to you as I can, to make up for it.

Then, with a loving woman's wish to see the face that is so dear to her, she stooped forward and peeped through a crack in the door of the china closet, which opened into the little sewing room, devoted for this evening to the gentlemen's toilet. Every word was plainly audible when her prying ear approached so closely to the crevice, and the first word rivited her attention. The men talking of matrimony.

"It's a duced bore," said the friend.

"You are tied to a woman's apron-strings for life. You can't say your soul is your own. Take my advice, and keep out of it altogether, Charles."

"Look here, old fellow," said Charles, taking his cigar from between his lips, "that sort of thing is all a man's fault. Now, when I marry, my first will be to prove myself master. As you begin so you go on, and before my honeymoon is over, the woman that takes my name shall know that my will is law, and that hers must yield to it."

The spoons in Mrs. Armstrong's hand tinkled together just then, but no one heard them. Charles went on:

"My wife, if I have one, shall have no chance to show her temper. If she does not like my orders, she must obey them without liking. I'll break her in like a horse—bring her down at once to the frame of mind I mean to keep her; purposely thwart her for a while; contradict her; object to her style of dress; make her alter her way of doing her hair; refuse to dance attendance at church, and make her send regrets to party invitations when she wants to accept them; show her at once what she may expect. After a while I might yield a little more; but because I choose, you understand—not to please her."

"Ye-e-s," said the friend, doubtfully; "but you can't think how hard you'd find it; and if you stay out late, they make such a row—sit up for you in a night-cap and cry when you come in."

"I'll manage that," said Rokewood, "by staying out every night until daylight. The one rule I should put in practice, would be—never let a woman have her own way." The spoons tinkled a little more, and Mrs. Armstrong's face was terribly flushed, but she listened still.

"Of course, you yield a great deal to the woman you are in love with," said Mr. Rokewood, evidently brushing the ashes from his cigar; "but that's because of the romance and all that sort of nonsense, which dies out with the honey-moon. You can find women enough to write poetry to, and to talk sentimental with married or single. As for your wife, she's the woman that keeps house for you, and the sooner you make her aware of the fact the better. When I marry, Jones, my dear fellow, it will be with no idiotic ideas of perpetual courtship in my mind. I'd begin as I intend to go on, and be master, you can depend on it."

"But not my master," whispered pretty Mrs. Armstrong; "not mine."

"Mistress Armstrong, them spoons, plaze," whispered Biddy, at the stairs-head just then.

Hetty Armstrong gathered up the spoons which had slipped loosely down into her lap. She looked at them as they did so. They were solid and elegant, as was all her silver. Her eyes glanced about the room, which wealth and taste had made the perfection of elegance and comfort. Her room! She heard, down stairs, the merry chat of her guests, the sound of music and dancing. She remembered that in the kitchen her servants were making ready a supper fit for a king. She turned to the mirror; a handsome woman, still young and elegantly dressed, glanced proudly back at her. An hour before, all this, the woman included, she would have given to Charles Rokewood, had he been a beggar. Just a tinge of pain went through her heart. One tear stole down her glowing cheek. Then she gave a little bitter laugh.

"I, alone am queen of me!" she misquoted; and ran out to give the spoons to Biddy.

"It was hard to find them," she said, here they are at last!"

And she laughed a little less than usual, and not quite naturally.

It was the merriest Christmas-eve party of them all, said every one of her guests, and Hetty Armstrong seemed the merriest there. But no one saw her when the door closed upon them all, and she was alone in her own chamber. No matter how brief a love-dream has been, especially if its sudden.

Hetty Armstrong refused Chas. Rokewood the next day, and people who guessed it blamed her bitterly. As for Charles himself, he was amazed and injured and greatly grieved, for he never guessed that his lecture on married life had a second auditor: nor that Hetty would have said "Yes" instead of "No," but for "the crack in the door of the china closet."

The following "floater" may be relied on as a correct statement:

3 right smarts make a heap.
4 heaps make a pile.
3 piles make a lot.
4 lots make one gob.
8 gobs make one scad.
3 scads make one codle.
5 codles make a dead load.
2 dead loads make more'n a mule can carry.

"Boy, you are not far removed from a fool."

"Well, as we ain't more than three feet apart, I give in to that," was the reply.

Punch's "He smole a ghastly smile," and "Many a wink he wunk," have been imitated by a minstrel wit, who said:—"You sneezed a snooze and said I snoozed it."

BETTER THAN GOLD.

Better than grandeur, better than gold,
Than rank and title a thousand fold,
Is a healthy body, a mind at ease,
And simple pleasures that always please;
A heart that can feel for another's woe,
And share his joys with a genial glow,
With sympathy large enough to enfold
All men as brothers is better than gold.

Better than gold is a conscience clear,
Though toiling for bread in an humble sphere;
Doubly blest with content and health,
Untried by the lusts or cares of wealth;
Lowly living and lofty thought
Adorn and ennoble a poor man's cot,
For mind and morals in nature's plan
Are the genuine tests of a gentleman.

Better than gold is the sweet repose
Of the sons of toil when their labors close;
Better than gold is the poor man's sleep
And the balm that drops on his slumber deep
Brings sleeping draughts to his downy bed
Where luxury pillows his aching head,
His simple opiate labor deems
A short road to the land of dreams.

Better than gold is the thinking mind,
That in the realm of books can find
A treasure surpassing Australian lore,
And live with the great and good of yore,
The sage's lore and the poet's lay,
The glories of empires pass away,
The world's great drama will thus unfold,
And yield a pleasure better than gold.

Better than gold is the peaceful home,
Where all the fireside charities come,
The shrine of love, the heaven of life,
Hallowed by mother, or sister, or wife,
However humble the home may be,
Or tried with sorrow by heaven's decree,
The blessings that never were bought or sold
And centre there are better than gold.

The Man That Wouldn't be Hanged.

The following incident has happened at Flessingue, in Holland: A wife, exaspirated by the continual drunkenness of her husband, threatened him with death. Some days ago she attempted to put this threat into execution. There was but an attic above the sitting room.—To this she ascended, made a hole in the floor, and passed a rope through it, one end of which fell into the room below, while the other remained fastened in the attic. She then descended, made a slip-knot in the rope, and waited her husband's return. He at last arrived and was much surprised to receive no reproaches on his conduct.

"There is something underhand here," thought he. "I must see."

We must premise that this scene took place in complete darkness. The husband, whose suspicions were roused, let himself fall into a chair and appeared to sleep profoundly. After some snoring, he felt a rope passed round his neck. He then understood the little trick that was to be played him, but did not move. His wife went up to the attic, and taking advantage of this moment's respite, the drunkard relieved himself of his rope and fastened it to the foot of the stove, which soon went up to the ceiling with a frightful noise, caused by the fall of some crockery which was standing upon it.

The wife, thinking the noise was caused by the fruitless struggles of her husband, ran to the police office to declare that she had found her husband hung. The police arrived in hot haste, and a candle was lighted, when all started back at the spectacle which presented itself. The stove was swinging gracefully in space, and the husband sat gravely smoking his pipe.—Instead of a suicide, an attempt to murder was established against the wife, who was arrested.

ADAM'S WEDDING.—An English journal, the Brittannia, has an amusing article, under the head of "Adam's Wedding." The editor says that he likes short courtships, and in this Adam acted like a man—he fell asleep a bachelor, and awoke to find himself a married man. He appears to have "popped the question" immediately after meeting Ma'm'selle Eve; and she, without any flirtation or shyness, gave him a kiss and herself. Of that first kiss in this world we have had, however, our own thoughts, as sometimes in poetical mood have wished we were the man that did it! But the deed is or was done, the chance was Adam's and he improved it. We like the notion of getting married in a garden—it is in good taste. We like a private wedding, and Adam's was strictly private. No beaux were there no cro

and the

"AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST,"

for one year. Of the REPUBLICAN we need not speak at present.

The American Agriculturist is a work that no farmer, nor house-keeper should be without. As a farm-journal we think it has no superior in the world—certainly none in the United States. It is issued monthly, and the subscription price is $1.50 per annum. By clubing with the REPUBLICAN you save fifty cents, and secure more good reading matter than you can obtain in any other way for the same money.

We hope the reading public will avail themselves of this very liberal offer.

GEN. GEO. H. THOMAS.—The remains of Gen Thomas—that true patriot, and great American warrior—were consigned to mother earth—dust to dust—on Friday the 8th inst., at Troy, N. Y. The ceremonies were of the most imposing character. President Grant and Cabinet, distinguished civil and military officers, and crowds of people from almost every portion of the country, were there to pay their last tribute of respect to one of the greatest Generals and purest men the country has ever produced.

CONNECTICUT.—The election in Connecticut resulted in the triumph of English, the Democratic candidate for Governor, by a majority of 750. The Legislature is Republican. A heavy snow storm caused many Republicans to remain at home. They were too certain of Jewell's election, and consequently remained at home and lost the victory. When will our Republican friends learn the lesson of vigilance, activity, and of being at the polls to deposit their ballot upon every occasion whether it be a State, County or Borough election? The people of Connecticut will gather up their Jewels next fall, richer and purer, and more sacred, in consequence of the present temporary defeat.

School Books.

In an extra of the Trade Circular, for March, we find the proceedings of a "Publishers' Board of Trade," convened in New York City, March 16th, 17th and 18th, at which Mr. Appleton presided. They enumerate a long train of abuses growing out of the Agency business, and in consequence of those abuses abolished the system. They adopted articles of Association; also a code of twenty-one By-laws, binding the members very closely.

No school books will hereafter be introduced at reduced rates through book dealers only.

School officers, teachers or parents will no longer be annoyed by agents.

This is a move, we think, in the right direction, and we hope it may be a success. The leading publishing firms of New York, Philadelphia, Boston and other principal cities constituted this convention. This fact is, or should be, a sufficient guarantee that frauds in school books are at an end.

The Court House Ring.

The leading desire of the men who constitute the Court House Ring appears to be, to rob the tax-payers of Centre county, and then refuse to publish a legal statement of the expenditures of the county. We allege that they are not faithful public servants, that they are not laboring to curtail expenses, to reduce the taxes, or to pay off the county debt. With thousands of dollars standing out—in the hands of defaulting collectors—whom they refuse to force to payment; they have had their agent, the Treasurer, S. S. Wolf, running all over the county endeavoring to borrow money at 10 per cent. We ask the tax-payers of Centre county why they should be taxed to pay 10 per cent. interest on money, and over $30,000 standing out in the hands of defaulting collectors? Why should S. S. Wolf run the county over to borrow money at 10 per cent. interest for it, when it is well known if the finances of the county were in competent hands, all the funds necessary could be procured at 6 or 7 per cent?

To do this, the Treasurer might be compelled to go to Republicans for the money. This Mr. Wolf will not do. He despises Black Republicans. They all, he says, voted against him, and shall have none of the benefits of the Ring. He will get his money from Democrats and pay ten per cent for it, and it is nobody's business.

This, we think, is carrying politics, personal spite, and revenge a little too far, and making the honest, hard-working taxpayers of the county pay for it. When will the honest portion of the Democratic party put their seal of condemnation upon such dishonest, aye, rascally conduct?

"Don't I Know all About It?"

P. G. Meek, in the last Watchman, in speaking of the State Legislature, appears to say, "Don't I know all about it?" In his own editorial he uses the the following language:

"The Legislature of this State adjourned yesterday, satisfied that it had done about all the mischief the people would be disposed to put up with this year."

Is this not very cautiously touched, for Mr. Meek? But he now comes to the point and says:

"We have become so accustomed to "Legislative rascality, that we have "ceased to expect any good, and hence "are not surprised that we have not "been agreeably disappointed."

Will our readers please observe how Meek speaks from actual experience? "Because," he says, "so accustomed to rascalities," having served two sessions, returned home, built a brick palace with the spoils of Legislation; therefore, he "is not surprised or disappointed."

We confess to having very serious doubts in regard to his "not being agreeably disappointed," as the assertion lacks truth, or why did he take his defeat last fall, for re-nomination, so much to heart? Was he not dis-agreeably disappointed then, and was he not blasted in his intrigues of being sent back, in order to enable him to "bargain and sell" to secure by "rascality" and "dishonest legislation," sufficient to furnish his brick palace?

But he still has hope. Hear him:

"We can still hope that our next "winter's Legislators may be an im-"provement upon those of the present "season."

That, in our opinion, is plain English, and means just this: Send me, Peter G. Meek, back to the Legislature, or to the Senate next winter. I know all the tricks of the "Legislative ring" and their "rascalities," having been a "drop pigeon" in that business for two years, I will be enabled to improve upon those "greenies" of the present session, and not injure my pockets in the least. I will not play "sleep" like Jacob G. Meyer, when thousands can be made for myself and the county, therefore both will profit by it.

Now, act upon this hint, gentlemen Democrats of Centre, and improve the last Legislature by sending me back. See what I have done. Look at my brick house. Ain't it a beauty, and only took two sessions in the Legislature to pay expenses?

This is certainly a pathetic appeal. It shows that Meek is desperately in earnest, and that the O—s and A—s, the S—s, and even Jacob G. Meyer should stand back and let Peter secure the place—the height of his ambition. Why should any person in the Democratic party presume to run against Peter? Does he not own the 'organ'? Has he not built up the party and kept it alive? What does Fred. Kurtz and his Reporter amount to? Nothing, just nothing! except, perhaps to sow a little discord occasionally.

Stand up for your rights, Meek.—Let Kurtz, Meyer, and all the others know that the 15th Amendment has passed—is a fixed fact, and that you are, therefore, just as good as any of them, or any other man.

MESSAGE.—To the exclusion of many news and other interesting items, we lay before our readers, the able message of our excellent Governor, giving his reasons for vetoing the Omnibus or Railroad bill. We think it will prove more interesting and useful than any other matter we might give our readers at the present time. We presume that the friends of this measure will not suffer it to rest here; but will bring it up next winter in a Constitutional and less objectionable shape. Hence the necessity of the people of Centre county looking to their interests. Governor Geary, by his veto, has shown that the interests of the people of Pennsylvania are safe in his keeping, and that he is as bright and pure a Statesman as he was a brave and faithful soldier.

WE observe, says the Commercial that the vetoed "Omnibus" Railroad Bill is spoken of as a monstrosity of the Penn'a. Railroad Company. While it is probable that Company gave its assent to the bill it is more than likely that the failure of the measure is attended by no particular regrets, as it relieves the company from engagements involving several millions at a period when those already entered into will tax heavily its resources. Of the several parties interested in the fate of the measure probably the Pa., Railroad Company feels that it is the smallest loser by the failure.

"CLEANSING THE BLOOD," upon which charlatans have harped so much is not a mere catch-word and delusion. The microscope shows that some diseases exist like parasitic growths upon the globules of the blood, and it is further known that some subtle substances destroy or expel them. These substances have been combined to make Ayer's Sarsaparilla, which does effectually expel the disorders that breed and rankle in the blood to rot out as it were the machinery of life. —Mercer (Pa.) Whig.

THE Treasury statement for March shows a reduction, during the month, of the public debt, of $5,766,349 43. At this rate, even, the decrease for the current year will reach about $70,000,000. A reduction of $50,000,000 per annum will pay the debt soon enough. Better reduce taxation the odd twenty millions, and leave posterity to do something.

VACANT.—We are informed that over 50 dwelling houses in this place are likely to be without tenants the coming season. High taxes, high rents and no employment for mechanics, may possibly have something to do with it.—Republican.

At last you acknowledge it. In spite of all that you have said to the contrary, you are forced to acknowledge that times are so hard that there is no employment for mechanics in Bellefonte, and that 50 houses stand empty for want of tenants. These, as you know, are the Radical good times when we were to have everything in plenty at the lowest rates. That is what you promised; your item above is the reality.—Watchman.

Acknowledge what? That the fifty vacant houses argue hard times. No we don't, nor do we so state in the article you quote. The first reason assigned for the vacant houses, is, that we have within the last ten years, notwithstanding the rebellion, over one hundred mechanics and laboring men in our town who, instead of being renters, as formerly, have built, and own, and live, in their own homes.

A great many new tenant houses have been built by our capitalists, who in consequence of the high rent asked, as yet have found no tenants. Our surplus capital has been invested in building splendid residences, instead of investing in manufactories, which would bring people to the town. What has the Radical party to do with high taxes in Bellefonte? Our city is built upon the hills. It has improved amazingly. The streets had to be leveled, new streets made new Bridges built, Wykoff pavement laid, of course the Borough taxes under the circumstances are high. But what odium attaches to the Radicals for this? The greatest the best, the purest party that ever existed in this or any other Country? The party that saved the Constitution and Union, the Nations life, and have enacted the homestead laws and all the other laws favoring the working men of the Country, which are to be found on our Statute books. If Maj. Reynolds D. G. Bush, and other Democrats have built tenant houses, and now have them standing idle because they exact exorbitant rents how does this pray tell us Mr. Meek, effect the Radical party or bring the charge of hard times and nothing to do, to the doors of the Radicals? Bah! Try again Peter.

THE GREAT RAILROAD BILL.

Veto Message.

EXECUTIVE CHAMBER, HARRISBURG, Apil 7, 1870.

To the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania:

GENTLEMEN—Senate bill No. 1070, entitled "An act to facilitate and secure the construction of an additional railway connection between the waters of the Susquehanna and the great lakes, Canada and the northwestern Sates by extending the aid and credit of certain corporations to the Jersey Shore, Pine Creek and Buffalo railway company, and in like manner to aid the construction of the Pittsburg, Virginia and Charleston railway, and the Erie and Allegheny railway," was only presented for executive approval on yesterday, the 6th inst.

Regarding it as among the most important ever submitted for consideration both in the principles it involves, and the consequences of my action thereon, I have examined it with as much care as was possible in the short time allowed, and the presure of other duties at this late stage of the session. For these reasons it would have been desirable that the views about to be announced, should have been the subject of more mature reflection. Entertaining, however, firm convictions that the proposed measure is not only in conflict with the Constitution, but at war with the best interests and true policy of the State, it is deemed an imperative duty to guard against all possible misconstruction by returning the bill promptly to the Senate, in which it originated, with the following statement of the reasons for withholding my approval.

There are in the sinking fund of the State nine and one-half millions of dollars ($9,500,000) in railroad bonds, viz: $6,000,000 in bonds of the Pennsylvania railroad company, and $3,500,000 of the bonds of the Allegheny Valley railroad company, the payment of the latter guaranteed by the Phil'a. and Erie railroad company, the Northern Central railroad company and by the Pennsylvania railroad company. These $6,000,000 are a part of the proceeds of the sale of the main line of the public works, sold in 1857; and the $3,500,000 are bonds substituted for a like amount of bonds which were proceeds of the sale of other portions of the public works, made subsequent to 1857. The whole $9,500,000, therefore, are proceeds of the sales of public improvements formerly owned by the State; and the bill under consideration, if approved, will take this entire sum out of the sinking fund and distribute it among the four railroad companies named in the bill, in the proportions therein recited.

In the consideration of this most important subject two question naturally arise:

First. Has the Legislature the constitutional power to enact this law? and Second. If the power exists, is it expedient to exercise it?

If the first question be answered in the negative, the bill should not be approved. If in the affirmative, then the second question assumes a grave importance. What then are the written constitutional provisions bearing upon the subject? The latter clause of the 25th section of the first article of the Constitution declares that:

"No law hereafter enacted shall create, renew or extend the charter of more than one corporation."

The eighth section of the eleventh article is as follows:

"No bill shall be passed by the Legislature containing more than one subject, which shall be clearly expressed in the title, except appropriation bills."

The proposed act is not an appropriation bill within the recognized meaning of this section of the fundamental law. Every one familiar with the history of our State Constitution knows the objects for which these clauses were inserted and adopted. Our State had been cursed with omnibus legislation, enacted by what in common legislative parlance was known as the system of log-rolling. Measures which alone could not stand upon their merits, and which often had no merits on which to stand, were fastened together in one bill, and by ingenious combinations of local interests, the most incongruous, and sometimes iniquitous provisions were forced through in the same act. Essentially diverse, conflicting, and even rival and hostile interests and parties, who could agree upon nothing else, were thus induced to unite in a common raid upon the Treasury of the State. This evil became in time so intolerable that the people were at last compelled to protect themselves against it; and they did so, by these plain constitutional prohibitions. The people in their sovereign capacity declared and wrote it in their Constitution, that "no bill should be passed by the Legislature containing more than one subject," and that "no law hereafter enacted shall create, renew or extend the charter of more than one corporation."

It is contended, and with some show of plausibility, that the bill under consideration embraces but the one subject of railroads, and this, and this alone, is expressed in the title: and that the act does not create, renew or extend the charter of more than one corporation. Technically, this may be so; but we are considering grave questions of constitutional law, where different rules of construction must prevail, and judged by these it is clear that the provisions of this act are in manifest violation of the letter, spirit, intent and object of these plain constitutional provisions. In the case of the Commonwealth vs. Clark (7 Watts and Sergt's. Rep.. 127) tae late Chief Justice Gibson, in delivering the unanimous opinion of our Supreme Court, said:

"A Constitution is not to receive a technical interpretation like a common law instrument or statute. It is to be interpreted so as to carry out the great principles of the Government, not to defeat them."

Apply this authoritative, sensible and well established principle of constitutional construction to the case in hand. The Constitution declares, in substance, that omnibus legislation and log rolling enactments shall cease; and to the end, "no law hereafter enacted shall create, renew or extend the charter of more than one corporation," and "no bill shall be passed by the Legislature containg more than one subject." The bill returned includes four different railroad companies as principals, and nine others as guarantors, and by a liberal construction assumes that they all constitute but one subject. By this omnibus system the proposed act combines the interests, local rivalries and cupidity of nearly every section of the State, from the Delaware to the Lakes, and has thereby secured its passage. The several corporations, it is true, are not, technically, created by this law, but were first incorporated by other bills, with the manifest intent to be followed by this act, which artfully combines the local interests of all the other beneficiary companies breathes into them the breath of life by the appropriation of the public moneys, and secures the very identical ends prohibited by the Constitution. Thus, by a liberal construction of the act, and a narrow and technical interpretation of the Constitution, the sound rules and principles applicable to both are reversed and misapplied, and the effort made to reconcile the statue with the prohibition. The attempt is a failure. The Constitution can not be evaded or nullified in anysuch manner. As ruled by Chief Justice Gibson, it must "be interpreted so as to carry out the great principles of the government, not defeat them."

But there are other provisions of the constitution prohibiting such legislation.

The 4th, 5th and 6th section of the XI article are as follows:

"SEC. IV. To provide for the payment of the present debt, and any additional debt contracted as aforesaid, the Legislature shall, at its first session after the adoption of this amendment create a sinking fund, which shall be sufficient to pay the accruing interest on such debt, and annually to reduce the principal thereof by a sum not less than two hundred and fifty thousand dollars; which sinking fund shall consist of the net annual income of the public works, from time to time owned by the State, or the proceeds of the sale of the same or any part thereof and of the income or proceeds of sale of stocks owned by the State, together with other funds or resources that may be designated by law. The said sinking fund may be increased from time to time, by assigning to it any part of the taxes, or other revenues of the State, not required for the ordinary and current expenses of Government, and unless in case of war, invasion or insurrection, no part of the said sinking fund shall be used or applied otherwise than in extinguishment of the public debt until the amount of such debt is reduced below the sum of five millions of dollars."

"SEC. V. The credit of the Commonwealth shall not in any manner or event be pledged or loaned to any individual campany, corporation or association, nor shall the Commonwealth hereafter become a joint owner or stockholder in any company association or corporation."

"SEC. VI. The Commonwealth shall not assume the debt, or any part thereof of any county, city, borough or township; or of any corporation or association; unless such debt shall have been contracted to enable the State to repel invasion, suppress domestic insurrection, defend itself in time of war, or to assist the State in the discharge of any portion of its present indebtedness."

These three sections are part of the Constitutional amendments adopted by a vote of the people in 1857. They speak for themselves, and in no doubtful language. The 4th section requires the legislature to create a sinking fund, to consist, among other things, "of the net annual income of the public works, from time to time owned by the State, or the proceeds of the sale of the same;" and declares further that, "unless in case of war, invasion or insurrection, no part of the sinking fund shall be used or applied otherwise than in extinguishment of the public debt." How is it possible to reconcile these plain declarations of the Constitution with the provisions of the bill under consideration?—These nine and a half millions of bonds are the proceeds of the sales of the public works; and they are in the sinking fund created by the act of 22d April, 1858, in compliance with this same section of the fundamental law. The Constitution declares as plainly as language can direct that "no part of the said sinking fund shall be used or applied otherwise than in extinguishment of the public debt." The bill proposed to apply the whole of the nine and one half millions to the construction of sundry enumerated railroads.

The Vth section declares that the credit of Commonwealth shall not in any manner or event be pledged or loaned to any individual, company, corporation. This bill proposes, not technically a loan or pledge of credit, but more; it proposes to pay for the construction of the railroads for these corporations. How can this be done consistently with the constitutional prohibition? Does not the greater include the less? In principle, or substance, how does the thing authorized differ from the thing prohibited, except perhaps in degree? True, the one prohibits the loan or pledge of credit, and the other appropriates the money to pay for the work, but the actual result is the same, viz: the taking of the proceeds of the sale of the public works out of the sinking fund and appropriating them to the construction of railroads.

The VIth section declare that "the Commonwealth shall not assume the debt, or any part thereof, of any county, city, borough or township, or of any corporation or association."

Technically, the bill under consideration may not authorize the assumption of the debts of these railroad companies, but it does more. It actually provides for their payment, and takes from the State treasury the necessary means with which to do it. These are all clear violations of the very plain provisions of our written constitution. All effort is made to escape from these conclusions, under the ruling of the Supreme Court in the case of Gratz vs. the Pennsylvania railroad campany (5 Wright, 447) which seems that these bonds in the sinking fund are not the proceeds of the sales of the public works. But the court in that case justifies its opinion on the ground that the act there in question authorized the sinking fund commissioners to exchange depreciated securities for those of more value. Here the attempt is to authorize the exchange of securities confessedly good for others of most questionable value. This I regard as a most important distinction, and one on which the legislation of last session may also be justified. Moreover, I consider the assumption that the bonds now in the sinking fund are not the proceeds of the sale of the public works, as wholly untenable, unwarranted and untrue. The purchase money was the proceeds of the sale of the public works, as understood at the time and ever since. Not only the $100,000 required by the law providing for the sale to be paid down at the time of the bid, but the whole seven and onehalf millions, which the same law designates as "the whole amount of sales to be paid in the bonds of the company." And if anything can make this more plain it is the fact that the same men, at the same session of the Legislature, passed these constitutional amendments of 1857, and also the act for the sale of the main line; and they naturally used the same words and expressions to express the same ideas. The words of the Constitution have already been quoted, and the 12th section of the act for the sale of the main line, apptoved 16th May 1857, declares:

"That the entire proceeds of the sale of said main line shall be paid to the sinking fund, and applied to the payment of the State debt." Surely it cannot be necessary to argue this question further. It is very clear that the framers of the Constitution intended that the whole of the proceeds of the public works should go into the sinking fund, and should be appropriated to no other purpose than the payment of the public debt; and the practice of the Government ever since 1857, in all its departments, has conformed to these constitutional requirements. No manipulation of words, no artfully drawn phrases, and no subtile distinctions or contracted or misapplied rules of interpretation, can explain away these plain constitutional restrictions on the power of the Legislature; or enable it, in defiance of them, to bankrupt the treasury of the State through means prohibited by the fundamental law of the land.

Having thus demonstrated the unconstitutionality of the proposed law, I might well be spared the discussion of its expediency.

It is possible, however, that different views may be entertained as to the legal question involved. I have, therefore, deemed it proper to submit the following propositions as conclusively establishing the inexpediency of this scheme.

First. By the terms of the act the State is to exchange six millions of bonds ($6,000,000) secured by a mortgage upon a road worth many times that amount—for six millions (6,000,000) of bonds to be issued by a company as yet unorganized and whose road is not yet commenced.

Second. The contract of guaranty required by the bill is illusory, for it is uncertain who is to execute it, and if entered into by responsible parties it binds them to nothing except the construction and equipment of the contemplated road. The manner in which the road to be constructed and equipped is wholly unprovided for. Upon this vital point the bill is entirely and ominously silent.

Third. The interest upon the six millions ($6,000,000) bonds to be surrendered is payable, according to a recent decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, in gold. The interest on the bonds to be received would be payable in currency.

Fourth. The State is now receiving upon the bonds to be surrendered four hundred and sixty thousand dollars ($460,000) per annum; and under existing laws is entitled to receive that amount annually, until the whole be paid. If the contract of guaranty mentioned in the bill were performed to the letter, the State could only receive three hundred thousand dollars ($300,000 per annum for the next three yrs. The loss therefore to the revenue by this exchange would be one hundred and sixty thousand dollars ($160,000) annually for the first three years, and thereafter the whole amount would be lost unless paid by the projected road.

Fifth. Other bonds to the amount of three millions and a half dollars ($3,500,000) most amply secured are to be exchanged for second mortgage bonds on a prospective railroad, the first mortgage being already authorized for sixteen thousand dollars ($16,000) per mile, at 7 per cent interest.

Sixth. It may well be doubted whether the proposed road from Jersey Shore would be a success. Almost every new road through such undeveloped regions has experienced a period of insolvency. The connection of the State with similar enterprises presents a sad history of disappointment and failure, of which the Philadelphia and Erie road is a conspicuous illustration. The competing roads already in existence render the proposed security entirely hazardous, if not worthless.

Seventh. As already stated in my last annual message a large amount of the debt of the Commonwealth will shortly fall due. During the next three years over nine millions of dollars (9,000,000) will mature. Should the securities now in the sinking fund be exchanged for unavailable bonds, the State could not meet her just obligations. This would lead to renewals and these would in time impair our credit. The people have declared and have the right to expect that the debt shall be paid off as provided in the Constitution, and their taxes reduced.

Eighth. This bill proposes to remit the State to pursuit of a policy of public improvements by which in years past she identified herself with enterprises of doubtful expediency, and which her citizens have with great unanimity condemned.

Ninth. On what sound principle of public policy, equality or justice can all the securities of the State be distributed to these four railroads, to the exclusion of the hundred others in the Commonwealth equally meritorious, and to the exclusion also of all the other interests of the State? What have the great agricultural, mining, manufacturing and other interests done, or omitted to do, that they should be denied all participation in the public bounty?

Other objections to this measure might be stated, but those already given are considered sufficient to satisfy every impartial mind that the proposed scheme is as gross a violation of the constitution as of sound policy.

It is, therefore, most respectfully suggested that the bill be reconsidered in the light of these objections, which may not have been fully presented during the few days occupied in the discussion and passage of this act.

JNO. W. GEARY.

Hon. A. C. Curtin.

On the day before the adjournment, the Legislature of Pennsylvania, by a unanimous vote in both branches, adopted the following joint resolutions, which were offered in the Senate by Mr. Billingfelt. They express the feeling of the people of the State, and will be to the faithful servant of the Government, at St. Petersburg, a pleasant message from home:

WHEREAS, His Excellency, the President of the United States, has appointed Andrew Gregg Curtin, the former Chief Magistrate of this Commonwealth, to a high and responsible position in the representation at the court of a ruler of a European nation whose boast is that he has always been a friend of the United States of American; be it.

Resolved, That the best wishes of this Assembly be conveyed to his Excellency, Andrew Gregg Curtin, Minister Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary of the United States at St. Petersburg, Russia, for his restoration to health so much impaired by his heroic and constant labers in behalf of this Commonwealth, and that he has, and always will, receive the grateful assurance of the high regard and esteem in which he is held by his fellow citizens, without regard to partisan views, on account of the noble and self-sacrificing spirit displayed by him alike in the hour of victory and defeat, and the fidelity with which he executed the solemn and responsible trusts committed to his hands by his fellow citizens.

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Commonwealth be requested to forward to Andrew Gregg Curtin a copy of these resolution properly engrossed.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous, and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

ROSADALIS.

THE GREAT AMERICAN health RESTORER, purifies the blood and cures Scrofula, Syphilis, Skin diseases, Rheumatism, Diseases of Women, and all Chronic Affections of the blood, Liver and Kidneys. Recommended by the Medical Faculty and many thousands of our best citizens. Read the testimony of Physicians and patients who have used Rosadalis: send for our Rosadalis Guide to Health Book, or Almanac for this year, which we publish for gratuitous distribution; it will give you much valuable information.

ROSADALIS

Dr. R. W. Carr, of Baltimore, says:

I take pleasure in recommending your ROSADALIS as a very powerful alterative. I have seen it used in two cases with happy results—one in a case of secondary syphilis, in which the patient pronounced himself cured after having taken five bottles of your medicine. The other is a case of scrofula of long standing, which is rapidly improving under its use, and the indications are that the patient will soon recover. I have carefully examined the formula by which your Rosadalis is made, and find it an excellent compound of alterative ingredients.

Dr. Sparks, of Nicholasville, Ky., says he has used Rosadalis in cases of Scrofula and Secondary Syphilis with satisfactory results—as a cleanser of the Blood I know no better remedy.

Samuel G. McFadden, Murfreesboro', Tenn., says:

I have used seven bottles of Rosadalis, and am entirely cured of Rheumatism; send me four bottles, as I wish it for my brother, who has scrofulous sore eyes.

Benjamin Bechtol, of Lima, Ohio, writes, I have suffered for twenty years with an inveterate eruption over my whole body; a short time since I purchased a bottle of Rosadalis and it effected a perfect cure.

Rosadalis is sold by F. P. Green and Druggests generally.

SINGULAR DEATH.—A stranger called at the house of Mr. John Flick, in Brady's Bend township, about two weeks ago. He was almost frozen, his limbs being in a terrible condition. After being warmed at the fire, his lower limbs bursted open with the heat. He was given food and it required a long time to satisfy his hunger. He said he had not been in a house for twenty days before, having slept in barns and under shelving rocks, &c., during that time. Beadle, editor of the Salt Lake Reporter, and Utah correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial. To all who wish to make themselves acquainted with the history and investigate the mysteries of the Mormon religion, no doubt this work will prove highly interesting and edifying. It will necessarily contain startling revelations, and will prove a romance of more exciting character than any that has lately issued from the press. The work is sold by subscription only; and an agent is wanted in every county.

FULL OF PRACTICAL INFORMATION—like its predecessors—is the number of the American Agriculturist for April 1st, an advance copy of which is at hand. The great amount of varied information, useful and original, could only be collected by a large force of intelligent, experienced men, such as this Journal employs. A column or more would be required to give a fair idea of the beautiful and instructive illustrations, the useful chapters on the work of the Farm, Garden and Household, including for the children, a capital description of Tea Culture in China, by "Carleton," who has "been there." So we advise our readers to get the paper and read it for themselves. It costs 15 cents a number, or $1,50 for a year, or four copies for $5. Spring Work is beginning, and the hints and suggestions, and plan of work given in the American Agriculturist will be of great utility, not only to farmers, but to Villagers and City dwellers who have their garden plots, and to all housekeepers. Orange Judd & Co., Publishers, 245 broadway, New York.

JUSTICE.—One of the greatest outrages perpetrated during the present term by the State Senate was the refusal to consent to Gov. Geary's appointment of Col. Geo. F. McFarland as Superintendent of Soldiers' Orphans School.

None dare doubt the ability of Col. McFarland, nor the strict, but good supervision of the schools under his administration. His defeat was occasioned only by stealth and falsity brought about by under-hand politicians.

During the term of 1868-69, a committee was appointed by the Senate of which Mr. Graham, of Allegheny was chairman to investigate the accusation brought against Col. McFarland of acquiring wealth too rapidly and it was found and reported to the Senate that not one cent of the legislative appropriation was misapplied or was not accounted for by the books of his department. Now this Graham comes out, votes against his appointment and heaps slander upon Col. McFarland.

We are pleased to announce that among his most earnest advocates is Hon. M. B. Lowry.

We think the Gov. would be justified in retaining Col. McFarland during the present year, and hope he will be able to establish his cause and successfully refute the mis-statements made by those persons who predicted and worked so earnestly to establish his removal.

The ministers of the Gospel should be so much interested in the cause as to write to the Gov. petitioning him to retain Col. McFarland. The widows of the Orphans can testify to the good condition of the schools and their good supervision. Col. McFarland being a one legged soldier can appreciate the condition of these orphan children.

ONE BY ONE. –Almost every day some of our very best and most enterprising citizens are leaving our county to settle in new homes in the great West. But a few days since, we chronicled the removal of H. P. Cadwallader, Jas. I. McCloskey, Martin L. Leitzell and others. Now it is our painful duty to announce that Dr. J. K. Holloway, the highly educated and experienced Physician, the sober upright man and excellent citizen is about to leave our county to settle in Dayton, Ohio.

The city of Dayton contains over 50,000 inhabitants and is without doubt one of the most beautiful and enterprising cities in that State. The inhabitants are all intelligent, industrious and thorough-going people. The public and private buildings, the school houses the churches with their spires towering to the very heavens, all combine to mark the citizens of Dayton as a well cultivated, intellectual people. While we are sorry to part company with Dr. Holloway or lose so good a citizen, we must say that he manifested his good taste and judgment in selecting the city of Dayton as his future home. To the people of Dayton we would say take good care of Dr. Holloway. He is a choice spirit, a first class Physician and a christian gentleman.

THREE WARDS.—A Bill has passed through the Legislature and been signed by the Governor, dividing Bellefonte into three Wards—the North, South and West Wards. All on the north side of High street, from the banks of Spring Creek to the jail and on to the Borough line east, will constitute the North Ward. All on the South side of High street running as above, will constitute the South Ward. All on "cheap side" or West of Spring Creek, including the Glass works, the Bush House, Bayard's Foundry, &c., &c., will constitute the West Ward. We know nothing further about the Bill. It was drawn up clandestinely, run through the Legislature in the same manner—the people knowing nothing of it until informed of its passage It may be a good law and it may not, we have not had the extreme honor of seeing it, or even being told anything in regard to it. We think the people—the taxpayers should have been consulted. We never did like this underhanded way of doing things. Anything that is worth doing at all is worth doing well, and in matters of public importance, the people should be consulted.

ELECTION OF JUSTICE OF THE PEACE.—The Republicans of our Borough held a caucus on Saturday evening, from seven to eight o'clock, at Wilson & Hutchison's office. The attendance was very large and the caucus passed off very quietly.

Maj. R. C. Cheesman was nominated by a small majority over Jesse Klinger, Esq., who was Justice of the Peace heretofore. The result was a surprise and a disappointment to the friends of Esq. Klinger, but was apparently, taken in good feeling by all. Maj. Cheesman is a one legged soldier and will be elected to the office for which he is named, easily. He is well qualified, as true a Republican as he was a soldier, and one who deserves favor at the hands of his neighbors. Several attempts of Democrats to get Mr. Klinger or others to bolt have failed and as they know they cannot divide, so we know they cannot conquer us.

JACKSONVILLE.—The Soldiers' Orphan School, is in excellent condition. Rev. D. G. Klien reports 108 pupils in attendance and all well. The buildings are large and commodious having been constructed at a great expense. During the four years that the school has been in existence but 4 deaths have occurred—2 from Typhoid Fever and 2 from Scrofula. Mr. Klien has leased 8 acres of land and purposes raising vegitables sufficient to supply the school. The larger male pupils to perform the labor under his instruction.

A large bell has been placed upon the buildings that can be heard three miles which adds greatly to the appearance and efficiency of the buildings and government of the school.

The best of water and large play grounds. During inclement weather the pupils play in the house in rooms especially prepared for that purpose.

For the Republican.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—

The Oak Hall Farmers Club met at the school house at Oak Hall, on Tuesday evening, April 5th, C. Dale, Pres't, in the chair, the minutes of the last meeting being read, the subject for the evenings discussion being the "Potato and its Culture." Joseph Baker was the first speaker and after showing one dozen of new varieties, he spoke of the origin of the potato and showed that from a nauseous tuber growing wild in South America, after years of cultivation and improvement it became a staple article of food for millions of the human family spread over almost the whole civilized world. He spoke of its diseases and remedies he said we all benefited more or less by the potato mania, that the Rev. Chenny E. Goodrich, A. Brezee and others who after years of toil have produced our best new varieties are public benefactors. Mr. Jacob Sherick next spoke, he said he was an old farmer but he was aware that farmers generally considered the raising of potatoes a small business, which in his opinion was a great mistake, that he some years ago had raised 500 bushels on one acre of ground, which did not cost him five cents per bushel. He believed in changing of seed as soon as he found that they were deteriorating. Mr. Jno. S. Foster next spoke he said he had raised potatoes successfully in Lancaster Co., Pa., and in Iowa and knew them to be a paying crop, but here in Pennsvalley—he thought it would not pay very well for want of a good market. Here again we find the need of a railroad. As it was getting late the President said he would make but a few remarks himself. He preferred an old clover sward plowed deep and prepared as for corn, planted in drills, a potato the size of a turkeys egg he cut in four pieces and manured with sheep litter, cultivated frequently and the last time in July and used plaster at the rate of two bushels to the acre.

Subject for next night "Gardening." Adjourned. A MEMBER.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—

Contemplating the visitation of a school known as the Fair Ground school and taught by Mr. J. M. Zimmerman we left this place on last Tuesday afternoon and after a toilsome journey through mud and mire we at length arrived at what we were informed were the "Coleville College buildings."

Judging from the surrounding territory connected with the buildings, we think there are rare facilities and special inducements existing for the acquisition of knowlege.

The house is a rudely constructed affair, supported by a few rough stone. It is about 10x12 with one door, two windows, no plaster, well ventilated—the cracks between the planks serving as registers. Its contents—a stove, mottoes, writing charts and a few rudely constructed desks and seats, on the latter of which sat about twenty beautiful, bright eyed, and cheerful little boys and girls poring over their books as though the destiny of our State and National governments depended upon their efforts, which is really the case.

We were called on to address the school but not being accustomed to speaking to such large audiences we declined and gratifying to us we were excused.

During our stay the pupils had recess which is always pleasant to pupils whose minds are fatigued. While the pupils were enjoying themselves we were endeavoring to ascertain, from the teacher, the condition and statistics of the school with but very little success, he not wishing to reveal to an unofficial the private affairs of the "College."

The government of the school is excellent, and judging from the rods we spied in one corner, the teacher is an advocate of corporal punishment. We are of the opinion that the rod well applied in extreme cases is productive of good discipline.

The clasification is good and we feel satisfied that the pupils under Mr. Zimmerman's guidance and instruction will improve rapidly.

Mr. Zimmerman ranks among the number one teachers. AMICUS.

Bellefonte, April 8, 1870.

SCARLET FEVER.—A mother thus writes of a preventive of scarlet fever: While two in a house were lying dead of this fever, I was enabled by the Divine mercy to carry our children unharmed through the epidemic merely by putting a small piece of gum camphor in a little bag, and suspending it around the neck of the child while in health. This is an astonishing fact, and I have often tried it in times of danger. I was told it by an old countryman of great intelligence, who used it thus in whooping cough. I believe it forms an atmosphere of its own around the person who wears it and thus repels the infected air beyond. It should be removed when the danger has passed.

NICELY FIXED.—Foster Devling & Co., having removed to the rooms formerly occupied by Loeb, May & Loeb, in the Turner building, Allegheny street, are now nicely fixed and well prepared to accommodate all who may favor them with their custom. Of the men who compose this firm we have frequently spoken, and we now re-assure our readers that we believe them to be correct business men and determined not to be undersold in this market. Give them a call.

NEW SALOON.—Our friend Wm. Brown, formerly head blower of Valentine's Furnace, has opened an eating Saloon, in the basement of the Bush House. Meals at all hours, and oysters served in every style at all times. He is a clever man and deserves success.

NEW STREET.—The new street leading along Spring Creek, from High to Lamb street is about completed. It will be a great accommodation to trout fishers.

Written on the Death of Caddie Mackey, of Central City.

BY MISS M. B. GALBRAITH.

There dearest Caddie sleeps
Beneath the clayey sod,
Her soul in safety Jesus keeps
We know she's with her God.

Those sparkling eyes we used to see
When filled with great delight,
The upward turning of that glance,
As if heaven was in sight.

We'll see no more, they are closed in death,
Her prattling tongue is mute:
They cheered our hearts with every breath
Like music from the lute.

Look up fond parents, dry your tears,
Your Caddie, is at rest;
She's far removed from grief and fear
She's numbered with the blest.

But there's a brighter world on high,
Where parted lov'd ones meet;
And far beyond yon azure sky,
Dear Caddie, you shall meet.

THE BRIGHT SIDE.—We have received a number of this popular children's paper which presents an unusual variety of contents There are over twenty different articles, all original, and some of quite superior merit. Its success has been very remarkable, 25,000 circulation being already secured; the publishers say they intend to make it 100,000 by the time it is one year old, which will be next July. They offer to send the four numbers for March, April, May and June, free to all who subscribe before July first. Terms, 50 cents a year. Specimen copy free. John B. Alden & Co., Publishers, Chicago, Ill.

CENSUS.—We are informed that W. H. H. Brainerd is an applicant for the Deputy Marshalship of the Bellefonte District. Mr. Brainerd has not been in the State much over a year, if any. Why should he be preferred or appointed over the heads of such honest, worthy and capable men and old citizens as James Dunlap, Mr. Crisman, D. M. Bilger or those true and faithful soldiers Geo. B. Campbell, Col. Greeno and others? It will not do gentlemen. This underhanded low trickery in politics may do in the Democratic, but it will not do in the Republican party.

GARDENING.—We have had a few days of lovely weather. Everybody was at work in the gardens cleaning off the rubbish, planting early potatoes, onions, peas and lettuce. But how many of those who purchase their seed will be disappointed? Buy the Sunny Side Garden Seeds for sale at J. D. Miller's Book Store, Post office building, put up by C. W. Lambert and warranted pure and true to name.

IRWIN & WILSON.—This enterprising firm are busy not only selling Hardware; but in pushing their new building on Allegheny street to speedy completion. Irwin & Wilson have the true wring, and their new room will be a beauty when finished.

PLANTATION BITTERS.

S. T.—1860—X.

This wonderful vegetable restorative is the sheet-anchor of the feeble and debilitated. As a tonic and cordial for the aged and languid, it has no equal among stomachics. As a remedy for the nervous weakness to which women are especially subject, it is superseding every other stimulant. In all climates of tropical, temperate or frigid, it acts as a specific in every species of disorder which undermines the bodily strength and breaks down the animal spirits. For sale by all druggists. v2n12-6m.

THE GREAT MEDICAL DISCOVERY!

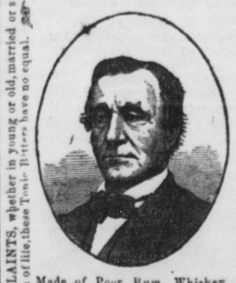
DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS.

MORE THAN 500,000 PERSONS Bear testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.

WHAT ARE THEY?

THEY ARE NOT A VILE

FANCY DRINK,



Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits, and Refuse Liquors, doctored spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true medicine made from the native Roots and Herbs of California free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the Great Blood Purifier and Life Giving Principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator, of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter, and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell.

$100 will be given for an incurable case provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores: cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins: cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE, and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed.

In Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, these Bitters have no equal. For full directions read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French, and Spanish.

J. WALKER, Prop'r. 32 Commerce, St., N. Y. R. A. McDONALD & CO., Druggist, and general Agents, San Francisco and Sacramento, California, and 32 & 34 Commerce St., N. Y.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers. v2n13-3m.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing also the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion, or Inflammation of the Liver, and all the Viscera Organs.

WEDNESDAY MORNING April. 13, '70

Present Garden Work.

The out door vines should now be tied up to the trellis; the raspberry canes should be staked and tied, but not tied too closely to the stake, as it prevents free natural growth. Asparagus beds should have the coarser portion to the manure raked off, the rest forked in, and in about ten days the beds should receive a good dressing of salt, for this purpose the cheapest and commonest will answer. The currant bushes should have all the dead and unproductive wood removed. Currant make the best bushes if planted from the cuttings. Take last year's wood, from eight to twelve inches long, and if you desire a bush plant as it is cut, and insert it in the ground where you wish it to stand, some five or six inches, and press the soil with the foot firmly around it, and you will have currants the second year. If you prefer a pretty little tree, cut out the eyes from the wood that goes beneath the surface.

The bush is the most productive and will rarely ever die out.

Gather up from every quarter all the rubbish about the garden, put it in heaps on different beds burn and scatter the ashes on such beds as are least productive.

Lose no time now in planting out your fruit trees vines and fruit-bearing canes. The sooner it is done the better, and the more time you will have for other things not so pressing now. Evergreen-trees can be delayed until the end of April or to the middle or end of May if necessary.

Pruning the flowering-vines, shrubbery and rose bushes should be done without delay, if not already done.—Peas should be in the ground as soon as possible, if not already there. The Extra Early and Early Frame are the ones to start with.

An early beginning in the garden has a good effect the whole season. The present spring, up to this writing is backward. The Mureury stood at six o'clock the morning (March 24) at the unusually low point of 24. Yet by the time this is read a new spirit may have come over Spring's young dreams, and the weather may be balmy and serene.—Germantown Telegraph.

UNCOVERING PLANTS IN SPRING.—Plants that have been protected in Winter should not be uncovered too early in the Spring. A few warm days make one think of gardens and gardening, and many will forget that warm weather does not usually come in a single bound, but there will be cold nights and frosty mornings for several weeks even after the first touch of Spring is felt; therefore, it is not a safe plan to remove all protection from plants, but proceed gradually. Strawberry plants that have been covered during winter if exposed early in spring will suffer more from sudden changes in the weather than those that have not been protected. The mulching will have become packed closely upon the plants by the snows and rains in winter, and a few warm days are very likely to start the buds and rot the leaves; but to prevent this, and at the same time keep the plant protected, let a man go over the beds, and with a fork lift up the mulch and let it fall loosely back over the plants. This operation will allow the air to reach the leaves and buds, keep them from starting too rapidly, and yet leave the plants well protected.—Raspberries and other plants that have been buried in the soil may be partially lifted at first, and not fully exposed until late in the season.

RENOVATING WORN OUT SOILS.—What is the cheapest method of bringing up exhausted land?" In any climate where clover will flourish, this plant is undoubtedly the cheapest manure. If you can get a fair crop of clover to start with, your success is assured. This can be done in many cases by sowing two bushels of plaster to the acre. If this does not succeed, bone dust, Peruvian Guano, or fish scrap, in moderate quantities certainly will. The clover may be turned in when a little past full bloom, or be partially fed by cattle that remain on the field, and plowed in later. Two or three crops will prepare the way for grain.

GRAIN FIELDS, if bare, should be looked to see that the water-furrows are free, and that the soil is not likely to be washed by spring rains. If the grain is much heaved by the frost, it should be rolled as soon as the frost is out, and the ground is settled enough. If clover-seeding is intended, the seed may be sowed before rolling. It will probably not start before settled warm weather. Top-dressing of bone-dust, ashes, fish-guano, fine, rich compost, Peruvian guano, or good superphosphate, will do much toward resuscitating grain which the winter has used roughly, and may be put on poor spots.

The farmer, in the manufacture and care of his manure heap, should always keep in view that it in preparation should not be allowed to lose its strength by the rapid fermentation have its solubie parts unnecessarily washed away and lost.

The word of scripture is a telescope to discover the great luminaries of the world, the truths of the highest concernment to the souls of men; and it is such a microscope that discovers to us the smallest atoms of our thoughts and discerns the most secret intent of the heart.

COMPLETION OF THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.

GREAT RUSH TO STERNBERG'S.

Sung to the Tune of Yankee Doodle.

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And now comple connection's made,—
An enterprising notion.

The mighty work at last is done,
So speedily and brisk, oh!
And now in ten days we can run
From here to San Francisco.

No more we take the ancient route,
The stage, a horrid slow thing;
It banged the passengers about,
And wore out all their clothing.

CHORUS, for the end of each verse:

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. STERNBERG,
A most delightful notion.

Through passengers by the Pacific Railroad will call at the store of A. Sternberg, before starting, and provide themselves with a complete outfit of the elegant and substantial Spring and Summer Clothing, the very best assortment of which will always be found at A. Sternberg's Store.

People who travel by other routes, and also people who, instead of traveling by any route at all, prefer to stay at home, can find the most superior and seasonable garments, for every occasion, of every variety, and at the lowest prices.

Do not fail to call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere; if you do not, we are sure you will be sorry that you did not. Our goods are put down to the lowest figure. We sell whole suits, according to quality,

MISCELLANEOUS.

SEWING MACHINE.

THE SINGER SEWING MACHINE

Among sewing machines, those made by the Singer Manufacturing Company, rank with the highest. Their manufacturing machines, have long been known as the best for manufacturing purposes. But within the past few years, they have given special attention to the production of a

FAMILY MACHINE,

destined to win much favor in the

HOUSEHOLD.

The machine which they now offer is quite light-running, simple, fast, noiseless Its accessories for

HEMMING, BRAIDING, BINDING,
QUILTING, TUCKING, CORDING
FELLING, GATHERING,

are simple and easily understood. Its delicate though enduring and tireless muscles of iron and steel, do all the work noiselessly, better, and few will deny, "Faster than hand can do it."
